any time recently. The entire list showed advances ranging from a fraction to a point or more. There was short covering owing probably to uneasiness caused by the expressed opinions of some of the largest commission houses that the market should now have an upturn. Some commission buying was noticeable also. In addition to all this there was as there has been for all this there was as there has been for buying was noticeable also. In addition to all this there was, as there has been for some time recently, buying for investment.

Before 11 o'clock a recession occurred which, however, was not expected to be important. The outlook now certainly seems favorable for an upward movement of three to five points. Further than this there is still much doubt. Many believe that the coming of the Democratic Concepts of the democratic that the coming of the Democratic Convention in the near future will prevent anything like a sustained advance in prices. Two or three reasons are given for the advance or three reasons are given for the advance in the stocks. It is said that large export orders for coal have been reclived. The steel securites were nearly all strong again, as they were yesterday. Tennessee Coal and Iron especially showed buoyancy, getting as high as 65 during the first hour. Republic Steel and National Steel were not particularly attractive, as they were still declining, and that the effect of this is large business. This is, of course, what should be desired by the friends of the securities of the steel companies. The trouble with Republic New

The Granger group was also much firmer, notably for Burlington and Quincy. Other strong features of the railway list were Atchison preferred and Union Pacific.

Northern Pacific was depressed at the opening, but it subsequently rallied in sympathy with the remainder of the market. The local traction stocks were all decidedly firmer, with material advances appearing in Metropolitan Street Railway and Manhattan.
